Effectively Speaking to the Youth

Ashish Hirday

This workshop will introduce you to effective communication strategies for speaking effectively to contemporary youths. It will also introduce you to a training, discipleship curriculum and evangelism tools that can help you to effectively communicate to youths and young adults to share Christ and to disciple them.

Trauma Knows No Boundaries: How to Heal Wounds of Trauma

Karen Kornelsen
Michael Wan

Room Sapphire 117

It touches us all, wherever we live, whoever we are. We live in a world that has turned away from God and we see, hear and feel the painful consequences of this around us every day. God has called the church to bring healing to our world; as a community bound together in love. We serve a God who hears our honest laments and a Saviour who knows what unjust suffering feels like. His own cruel death and powerful resurrection offers healing to the broken-hearted and freedom from the trauma that has oppressed them. Join us as we learn how to help others to heal from the wounds of trauma.

Exploring Undivided Witness where there is no divide between social action and evangelism, secular and spiritual

Sally Ababa

Room Sapphire 111

Ever wonder how you can effectively witness in places and people groups hostile towards Christianity?

Come, let us learn and explore together the 10 principles developed in the book Undivided Witness: Jesus followers, community development, and least-reached communities. Those principles were drawn together by experienced community development workers serving with OM along with participants from the Oxford Center for Mission Studies, All Nations Christian College, and two other organizations. We desire to be His faithful Witnesses where there is no divide between secular and spiritual – and you can be that witness!

Asbury Revival - Perspective of Administration and Student Leader

Timothy C. Tennent
Canaan Yan

Room Sapphire 119

Many have heard of the Asbury Revival – of how a group of students stayed behind on an “ordinary” chapel day and hosted the Presence of God through worship and repentance. As the words spread, more and more people came from cities in the USA as well as from many nations. Prof Tennent will share on the experience and also the lessons learned from the perspective of the Seminary Administration. Canaan will share his perspective as a student leader encountering the Presence of God in the midst of the chapel room.

The Challenge of Missions and Reconciliation in the Holy Land

Rev. Dr. Jack Sara

Room Sapphire 109

Dr Sara will first explore the implications for evangelical mission in the Holy Land of affirming how reconciliation and peace making are central to Christian mission. Secondly, the participants will get a glimpse of the lived reality for people in the Holy Land today and why reconciliation must address the issue of justice. Thirdly, the workshop shares how evangelical Christian missions in Palestine and Israel may work against reconciliation and may in fact, increase hostilities in the Holy Land. In conclusion, we will consider the ministry of Jesus in calling the church to a reorientation of its missional spirituality and practices as an example of the fundamental correction needed for evangelical mission to advance reconciliation in the Middle East. Can the Asian church learn to avoid being “anti-missional” by avoiding the mistake of an unhealthy intersection of theology and politics?

The Core Missionary Task: What Do Missionaries Do?

Jonathan and Penny Lockwood

Room Sapphire 110

Missionaries go to people who do not know Jesus Christ with the prayer-filled objective of making them disciples of Jesus Christ. A faithful reading of Scripture applied to practical missiology has led us to six essential components of missionary service. We call these the Core Missionary Task. We will introduce how missionaries approach 1] entry to a new field, 2] evangelism of unsaved peoples, 3] discipleship of new believers, 4] church-planting to establish the Body of Christ where it never existed, 5] leadership development methods that empower local leaders, and 6] on-going partnership with the indigenous church in new mission fields. We will share a case study from our ministry to demonstrate the joys and challenges of each element of the missionary task.

Digital Ministry For Online Engagement With Biblical Truth

Paul Wang

Room Sapphire 106

Digital ministries provide creative online tools and strategies to help accomplish the missionary task. We desire for people who have never heard the name of Jesus to have the opportunity to hear and receive the good news. We long to see more church leaders being raised up and equipped for the gospel ministry. Digital ministries create online engagement that would lead to offline involvement resulting in prayerful and healthy local churches.

Samuel Endarsa

Room Sapphire 107

This workshop will focus on the urgent need for the good news among the Unreached, Unengaged People Groups in the world. To date, there are more than 3,000 people groups who have not heard the Gospel. Unfortunately, not many people have ventured to reach them and there is no church-planting effort nor believers among them. Why are they still unreached and unengaged? Where do they live? How do we reach them? This is our task to make Him known and His Name to be glorified among all people groups.

Sophia Loibl

Room Sapphire 104

Having spent half of her life enslaved, Sophia knows first-hand the hardships surrounding the world of human trafficking. She now uses her story and experience to teach others to join in the fight for freedom. In her workshop, Sophia will explain how you can be involved in the fight against trafficking wherever you are in the world. “They shall build up the ancient ruins; they shall repair the ruined cities, the devastations of many generations.” Isaiah 61:4

Bible Translation: Mission Endgame for Holistic Transformation

Bob and Yo Artz

Room Sapphire 116

The remaining 1,892 Bibleless people groups are in the hands of our generation. The Bible translated into their heart language will become the next missionary living among them until the end of time. Join us on this mission endgame as we explore the implications of Luke 11:9-13 through a model journey.

Crowdsourcing for Missions

Nick Wu

Room Sapphire 108

Mission efforts of the 1% in professional ministry will not be enough to finish the Great Commission. The other 99% of the Church has a part to play, but they are often under-utilized within the church. Crowdsourcing Mission is about activating the 99% through their digital and marketplace skills to find their place in missions. Through new opportunities with technology and remote work, the 99% can take part in innovation, collaboration, and co-creation with mission organizations and frontline workers.
